

Douglas Rosenberg and Li Chiao-Ping present:

Summerwork @ The Farm (4)

OREGON, WI - August 4 - August 9, 2008

Summerwork @ The Farm is a process-oriented, fluid, creative environment for dialogue, critical thinking and experimentation. The Farm is a 5-acre plot of land set within the rolling hills of an agricultural community near Madison, Wisconsin. Each day begins with a yoga session, followed by a discussion and then time for individual or group work. All meals are prepared collectively from the organic garden. We re-group in the evenings for dinner and to reflect on the day's events.

PRACTICE

Mentoring

(digital media, video editing, performance sessions)

Dialogue + Visual Writing

(work-in-progress, theory, critique, screenings, readings)

Body

(Yoga/performance/movement)

Collaboration

(incubation @ the farm - artworks, performance; collaborations with participants)

Interdisciplinary Practices

(conceptual, sculpture, drawing, performance, print, dance, video, movement, digital, sound)

FACILITIES

2 Macintosh G-5 multi-media work stations

1,200 square ft. art studio

Wood shop

5 acres of open space

1,200 square ft. dance/performance space.

Misc. video projectors, digital video cameras and players, screens, slide projectors and etc.

Organic garden

Schedule:

Monday August 4 - Saturday, August 9, 2008

Community Welcome Dinner on Sunday August 3.

Fee:

$150

Registration / Information:

rosend@education.wisc.edu

www.farmwork.org

Tools. Site. Figure it out.