

www.tank.tv at Tate Modern

From John to Sebastian, 11th December 2009, 7pm.

Screening to include UK premieres of several new productions in a programme that examines the wealth of strategies employed by contemporary artists working with the moving image.

John Bock, Messi Mecker, 2008. Video (PAL) 10:12 mins. Photography: Jan Windszus. Courtesy: Klosterfelde, Berlin; Anton Kern, New York

Sebastian Buerkner, Turf Waltz, 2006.

During 2009 www.tank.tv has had the pleasure of exhibiting the work of eighteen artists in a series of eighteen online solo shows. To celebrate the range and quality of work shown tank.tv have invited nine of the artists included in 2009's programme to screen a previously unseen work in the Starr Auditorium at Tate Modern.

The resulting programme will premiere several new productions from emerging and world renowned artists working with the moving image today, including: Alice Anderson, John Bock, Sebastian Buerkner, Thomas Hirschhorn, Jean-Charles Hue, Lisa Oppenheim, Steve Reinke, Michael Robinson and Mark Aerial Waller.

2009's Solo Show Programme on tank.tv was an attempt to survey the range of strategies and styles that have and are being used by artists working with the moving image. All eighteen solo exhibitions are available to view via the tank.tv online collection at www.tank.tv.

Programme duration 70mins // Tickets £5 (£4 concessions), available through the Tate box office.

www.tank.tv is an online gallery and inspirational showcase of artists' film and video. Dedicated to exhibiting both emerging and established international artists on the web, we present exhibitions throughout the year and hold events at some of the world's most respected institutions such as Tate Modern, the V&A and the ICA. Each show has an audience from all around the world, which can also access our collection of over 650 previously exhibited moving image works.